Chair : Dr. Ebrahim Samba, WHO
Presenter : Dr. Kwesi Botchwey, Harvard University
Discussants : Representatives from stakeholder groups -
Women, PLWAs, Government, CSOs

This presentation will assess the impact of HIV/AIDS on different aspects of African human and economic development. The African continent has the highest incidence of HIV/AIDS in the world today with some 23.3 million people infected and with AIDS-related diseases currently the main causes of death in Africa. According to UNAIDS, the global prevalence rate is 1.07% while the sub-Saharan average is 8.57%. Despite regional differences, no country has evaded the virus, and the highest prevalence rates are found in Eastern, Southern and Central African countries, directly depleting labour and lowering productivity and GDP, as well as household and government revenue and savings.

The wealth and health of populations are intricately and unquestionably related and AIDS has become the region's largest public health concern and the greatest development crisis to be overcome. The effects of the pandemic vary according to the structures of economies, the nature of the response and the prevalence rate. The scenario of an ever-growing AIDS epidemic is not inevitable because foresight and early action, financial and technical assistance from partners, structural and social changes and involvement of CSOs and the private sector can raise the level of committed efforts for containing and eradicating HIV/AIDS.

This plenary will outline and assess the established economic impact of AIDS at various levels, on demographic processes and outcomes, and on macro- and micro-economic indicators for sectors, household and individuals. It will also address responsibilities, roles, responses and recommendations for immediate action. The casualties, costs and calculations for Africa are immense and daunting, particularly in the areas of health, education, agriculture and business. The geo-specific realities for widows and orphans will also be tackled and discussions should consider partnerships for action, finance and equity, leadership and strategic, planned national responses.

11:00 – 11:30: Break; poster sessions; speakers corner; exhibitions; networking

11:30 – 13:00 Parallel breakout sessions on “HIV and Development”.

These will cover various sectoral sub-themes including:

◆ Macro-economic impact

Discussants : Mr. Hanno Rumpf, Namibia
Mr. Joe Harvey Martin, Zambia
Mr. Kebour Ghenna, Ethiopia

An overview of the macro-economic impact of infectious diseases on Africa's growth patterns, including case studies of recent modeling exercises in African countries, the cost and fiscal implications of upscaled action against AIDS, including the issue of access to antiretroviral drugs and external financing in the form of debt relief and assistance from partners, the impact on households, on rural areas, on health care services, on education, on Africa's AIDS orphans, and appropriate responses at the different levels of leadership from the community to the national level.

◆ Household impact

Chair : Prof. Anthony Barnett, UK
Venue : Conference Room 3
Facilitator : Prof. Pape Syr Diagne, Centre for African Family Studies
Discussants : Dr. Peter Lamptey, Family Health International

An overview of the micro-economic impact of the pandemic on households in Africa, including emerging coping mechanisms. Whole households have been shattered and communities depleted by the effects of HIV/AIDS. Not only the victims, but also all household members are directly and indirectly affected, by the costs of care and prevention and effects on income, apart from other losses due to stigmatization and discrimination.

◆ Impact and response in rural areas

Chair : To be announced
Venue : Conference Room 4
Facilitator : Ms. Gladys Mutangadura, USA
Discussants : Ms. Marcella Villareal, FAO
CSO representatives

This session will analyze the impact of HIV/AIDS on agriculture and rural development and on local community development. The rural areas are already disadvantaged by lack of services and facilities and HIV/AIDS compound the problems. How to mobilize local rural communities to help stem the spread of the virus and mitigate the suffering of victims and their families should be a major focus of the discussions.

◆ Impact and response, health care services

Chair : To be announced
Venue : Conference Room 5
Facilitator : Dr. Gilbert Kombe, USA
Discussants : Prof. Joseph Brunet-Jailly, Institut de Recherche pour le Développement
Ms. Elizabeth Madraa, Uganda

This session will focus on how the health sector needs to organize to respond to the AIDS crisis. The discussion will emphasize the relationships between health sectors and others such as home-based care and traditional healing. Country experiences and best practices will be shared on the extent to which the AIDS crisis has affected health care services at various levels, and on how best the health sector can build capacity to cope with AIDS-related diseases in a context of scarce resources and increased demand for AIDS prevention, treatment and care programmes. Government and private sector action on the infrastructural and administrative issues is particularly significant.

◆ Impact and response, the education sector

Chair : Mr. Ekwow Spio-Garbrah, Minister of Education, Ghana
Venue : Conference Room 2
Facilitator : Prof. Michael Kelly, Zambia
Discussants : Mr. Clement Wiredu, Ghana
UNESCO
Youth group representatives

---

This presentation will describe the impact and response in the education sector, in terms of new demands and new services and products to be supplied. The session will attract many educational officials and educators involved with policymaking and resource allocation in the education sector. Not only is the education sector directly affected by AIDS-related deaths, it must also cope with new demands for educating the public and specially vulnerable groups on the dangers of HIV/AIDS prevention, as well as care of victims.

◆ Impact and response, orphans

Chair : To be announced
Venue : Conference Room 6
Discussants : Representatives of government
Youth groups
CSOs

The panel presentation and discussion will focus on the care and absorption of the orphans. Not only has orphanhood and child abandonment soared in Africa as an immediate result of the pandemic, long-term consequences stretch well into the future, affecting tomorrow's generation of adults and leaders. There are problems with absorbing and caring for these children, many of whom are now heading up households of younger and elderly members. MTCT in Rwanda should have much to contribute, and UNICEF activities in this area will be highlighted.

13:00 – 14:00

Lunch

14:00 – 15:30

Poverty has been recognized as a co-factor to HIV infection. Access to basic resources and social services for the poor in health and education are fundamental in poverty reduction. 11:30-13:00 Parallel breakout sessions on “Leadership challenges and opportunities”

These sessions will discuss the leadership roles and key challenges for successful social mobilization at all levels of society, for:

◆ Civil Society Organizations (CSOs)

Chair : Ms. Nancy Kachingwe, Zimbabwe
Venue : Conference Room 2
Facilitator : Mr. Mazide Ndiaye, Senegal

Civil society is already active in AIDS prevention and control. NGOs are particularly active at community level and can be mobilized for intensified, sustained action at their level of greatest effectiveness.

---

◆ Government

Chair : Tanzania Government representative
Venue : Conference Room 3
Facilitator : Ms. Mitike George, Ethiopia

The leadership role of government in establishing an enabling environment for public mobilization and creation of partnerships against AIDS with external partners, CSOs and the private sector cannot be underestimated.

◆ Religious leaders

Chair : Rev. Clement Janda, All African Council of Churches
Venue : Plenary Hall, Africa Hall
Facilitator : Pastor Gideon B. Byamugisha, Uganda

To contain this emergency, religious leaders not only have access to their congregations, but can use moral arguments to urge them to change certain sexual and social patterns of behaviour that help to spread AIDS. Church institutions can also be mobilized to become centres of counseling and treatment.

◆ The youth

Chair : Youth group representative
Venue : Conference Room 4
Facilitator : Youth group representative

African youth are at great threat from AIDS. Not only are the most sexually active population groups at risk, but consequences such as increasing prevalence rates, orphanhood and households headed by youth affect their lives far into the future.

◆ Gender implications

Chair : Ms. Virginia Ofosu-Amaah, Director, UNFPA
Venue : Conference Room 1
Facilitator : Ms. Wariara Mbugua, Kenya

Gender implications require coordinated action and collaboration between men and women at all levels, as well as negotiation of changed sexual and social behaviour. Since heterosexual transmission has become the main mode of transmission, even married partners are at high risk in some areas.

---

◆ Human rights and HIV/AIDS activism

Chair : Mr. Urban Johnson, UNICEF
Venue : Conference Room 5
Facilitator : Mr. Alex de Waal, UNICEF
UNHCR representative

New applications and interpretations of human rights are needed as society faces the upheaval caused by the pandemic. Rights to information and education and to treatment and health care become particularly important. Activists in government, civil society and the private sector need to identify and carry out new forms of advocacy.

◆ The military in HIV/AIDS prevention and control

Chair : Representative of the Ethiopian Armed Forces
Venue : Conference Room 6
Facilitator : Mr. Abdul Mohammed, UNICEF

It has been reported that soldiers are a primary source of transmission, mobile and prone as they are to taking several sexual partners over time. It is significant that AIDS prevalence rates are highest in conflict-torn areas, where social services have deteriorated, where rape and sexual violence are high and soldiers are far from their usual mates. The extent to which the military can be used to further dissemination of information about prevention and treatment should be investigated.

13:00-14:00 Lunch break

14:00-15:30 Parallel breakout sessions on “Leadership challenges and opportunities” (continued)

15:30-16:00 Coffee Break; poster session; speaker’s corner; exhibitions; networking perspective on future measures to be taken for an intensified response. Selected profiles will be highlighted.

◆ National Workshop Highlights
